Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. . Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 56-59,64-74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Miyazaki et al ('377) in view of Dumoulin. Miyazaki et al disclose an MRI system comprising a pulse sequence performing unit configured to generate a pre-sequence and a data acquisition sequence as seen in figures 5-6,8-10. Each of the sequences includes the type of pulses as set forth in the claims. Each of the MT pulses are 90 degrees. Miyazaki et al disclose the use of an SE data acquisition pulse sequence. The variables affecting the pulse sequences are capable of being changed. Miyazaki et al fails to disclose the use of non-selective MT pulses. The use of non-selective pulses are well known as shown for example in Dumoulin. Dumoulin discloses in column 5 that either non-selective or slice selective pulses are used depending upon whether or not one wants to limit the volume to which the pulses are applied. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have modified Miyazaki et al such that the MT pulses are applied without the use of gradient pulses in order to apply the pulses across the entire area located within the system. Such a modification merely involves the substitution of one well known type of pulse application for another. With respect to claims 68,69,73, the specific pulse duration used would have been an obvious design choice in the absence of any showing of criticality.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed June 20, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). The use of non-selective pulses can be applied to any type of pulses used in MR imaging in order to apply the pulses across the entire area located within the system.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
